

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

To provide a connection structure between optical fibers and a connection method to couple optical fibers that make it possible to secure optical transmission, a connection structure between optical fibers includes a plurality of optical fibers, a base member provided over a substrate, and a connecting part provided on a top surface of the base member and joined to each of end surfaces of the plurality of optical fibers.